Embroidery is very freely used. Linen dresses show combinations of emerald and maline laces; twenty-seven-inch embroidery flouncing, forming tunics or skirt draperies, is mounted on accordion-pleated batiste or net foundation skirt. All-over embroidered batiste and cotton crepes form entire dresses.

WILTONS TO WOOL RAYADES

Latest American Fashions

BY CORA MOORE.

However her other gowns may interest her, every woman takes special delight in the possession of pretty, comfortable matinees. The one sketched for today is so simple that it can be made at home very satisfactorily, and yet it is possessed of infinite charm. Cream colored silk mull was used in the original, but there are various other materials that would answer the purpose quite as well.

Crepe de chine is always lovely for room gowns, whatever their character. China silk, also, is universally liked, and there are the softest wools, such as nun's veiling, challis, either cotton or wool, and any number of figured materials, so they are soft and pliable.

The skirt is cut straight and plain, then the foot is scalloped and bound and further finished with a narrow ruffling of the same silk mull. A second and similar ruffling is arranged above it following the course of the scallops. This matinee has short sleeves cut in one with the body and finished above the elbow with ruffled edge scallops, while one side of the front is cut in a wide, square-shaped tail that hooks over to the other side.

The surplus fullness around the front is taken up in gathers concealed by an effective bow of the mull. The lower edge of the garment slopes gradually and gracefully to a rounded point at the center back and scalloped. It is given the same treatment of narrow ruffling that the skirt and sleeves have received. The ruffling is turned away from the neck.

A variation that surely would prove pleasing would be to substitute a bow of coral or dull velvet for the velvet material, and, if preferred, the ruffling might also be of some contrasting color, in which case, of course, the bow would match it. If a figured fabric were employed, the trimming might be a plain color, carried out the general tone of the background; if a silk, then the ruffling might be of chiffon in self tone.

One clever boudoir set, comprising skirt, matinee and cap, is fashioned of pink pink nuno brocade, which, by the way, is a delightful weave for such purposes, since it has the general effect of a brocade, without its ostentatious gloss. The nuno is absolutely lustrous. The jacket of this particular model is made of a saucy affair of Russian persuasion, with a graceful border around the lower edge, made by fixing festoons of blue ribbon, with the tiniest cluster of satin or artificial rosebuds. Where the ribbon garniture finishes at the fronts the ribbon is allowed to dangle in many loops with another small cluster of the buds caught up with the ends. The skirt is plain, but the roses and the bebe ribbon figure again in trimming of the Charlotte Corday cap.

SOME OF THE SIMPLEST NEGLIGES ARE THE MOST ATTRACTIVE.

THE INCONSISTENT SEX.

By Ruth Cameron.

Which is the inconsistent sex? The older I grow the more I protest against the accepted answer to that question. Women, to be sure, are very inconsistent about some things, but if any one can point out a greater inconsistency in the feminine character than the average male shows in the discrepancy between what he thinks he likes in a woman and what he actually likes, I shall be ashamed for my sex.

Once upon a time there was a young woman who dressed her hair with a Puritan simplicity which was not becoming to her. She did this because her husband had always told her that he disliked anything in the nature of pins or ornaments in her hair. When a woman had been on and on that he thought they were always disfiguring.

Now, one day a girl friend who was visiting this woman persuaded her hostess to let her do the latter's hair in fluffy ruffles style. The result was surprisingly becoming, but the hostess insisted that she must take it down before her husband came home, as he would not approve. Finally, however, she was persuaded by the author of the new head-dress not to change it. "I bet he'll like it," said the audacious one. "You don't know him."

But as it proved she knew him better than he knew himself, for when he came home his greeting to his wife was, "Why, how nice you look. What have you been doing to yourself? If it's that gown, I wish you'd wear it every night."

A doctor's wife tells her husband weekly adopted all her husband's suggestions as to needless shoes, boneless corsets, shapeless dresses, rattles and never suspected that she wasn't delighting his eyes until she heard him enthuse over the wives of some new friends. She made an effort to meet the women, and found that without exception they typified the opposite of his suggestions to her. Again, men will almost invariably tell you that they dislike any sort of perfume on a woman, and yet they cluster like bees about the attractive woman whose affectation of some particular fragrance is one of her attractions.

Nor is it just in little matters like this that men do not know their own minds. Indeed, no. Many a man will describe his ideal woman to you one day as a quiet, unassuming, sensible girl, with some intelligence and character, and the next day will throw himself at the feet of some underbred, over-dressed creature with about as much intelligence in her head as in the puffs that cover it.

Which really deserves to be called the inconsistent sex?

I wonder.

No, on second thought, I don't.

A New Velour Sombrero.

French mothers greatly approve the juvenile tailors for their small girls, and in Jersey suits might easily be mistaken for their small brothers—save when the mistake had been made of leaving their hair uncomfortably long and out of harmony with their clothes.

It is foolish, however, to put all girls in the same dress, for there are some mothers who, so far as younger children are concerned, fully appreciate the advantage of playing dress-up. For housekeeping is a burden at times when a woman only wants to be a woman and petted and waited on. To look often like the boy, which is important to the welfare of the home, and when it seems bound up in sadness due to it that the housekeeper has a time of some sort or else a rest from all duties, which is still more needed.

When filling a cake tin remember that the center of the cake is the part which will usually be the highest, so spread the butter much to the sides as possible, leaving a depression in the center, then the cake, when baked will be level and much more convenient for slicing.

Earrings Up to Date.

Whether one wears earrings or not has practically ceased to be a question of fashion; it is merely a matter of type. If they happen to be becoming to you, you wear them, and if not you don't. Many young girls imagine that they are extraordinarily chic and are never to be seen without jewels of all sorts dangling at their ears, and in their case it is very much a display of rather senseless vulgarity. Well dressed and well bred girls do not indulge in silly danglers. Indeed, the existence of earrings can only be justified by themselves; either they must be stones of value or they must be artistic in color or design, otherwise they are not worth wearing.

Hats and Their Trimmings.

Simplicity of outline and effect is the fashionable edict for the new hats and trimmings. Wings come in for a good share of attention, large and small, single and double, and in many cases made of the materials of which the hat is composed or some contrasting fabric. Boutiques and the various fancy braids and chosen play buttons, ornaments and bindings are used on some of the smart hats for promenade wear.

The Demand for Plain Color Carpets

The present vogue of subdued decorative effects has created an unusual demand for Plain Color Carpets.

Our displays of Plain Color Carpets are unequaled in America for size and variety. Many of the weaves are controlled by us, and are not obtainable elsewhere.

They embody English Barodas, Saxines, Angoras, Sax-onias and Velvets; French and Domestic Wiltons, Domestic Axminsters, Velvets and Ingrains. Widths range from 27 inches to 15 feet, depending upon the weave.

The facilities afforded by our enlarged building for the proper demonstration of carpets are exceptional.

Correct measuring, making up and laying of this type of floor covering are assured because of our long experience in this class of work.

IN THE KITCHEN AND PANTRY

Quite as tempting a cut from more expensive parts is a cannon of beef, for which round steak is used. This piquant spiced loaf is fully as delicious when cold and cut in slices for supper or lunch as it is served hot, and so is a very economical dish for dinner hashed brown potatoes and any other reasonable vegetable, such as corn on the cob, may be added to the menu. Peach dumplings are as palatable as they are old-fashioned, and offer one of the best of the season's dessert possibilities.

Cannon of Beef.
Cannon of Beef, Hashed Brown Potatoes.
Corn on Cob. Buttered Beets.
Sliced Tomato Salad.
Peach Dumplings with Peach Sauce.
Coffee.

Take two pounds of lean beef, cut from the round, one-half teaspoon of salt, one-quarter teaspoon of pepper, one-quarter teaspoon of onion juice, two tablespoons of melted butter and one tablespoon of chopped parsley. Grind the beef and mix well with the other ingredients. Shape in a roll about six inches in length, place on a rack in the dripping pan, sear and bake in a slow oven thirty minutes. Slice every five minutes, first with water and later with dripping. Serve with brown mushroom sauce.

Hashed Brown Potatoes.
Take potatoes that were boiled in their skins and not too well done. Take off skins, remove any discoloration, then chop rather fine. If you have no chopping bowl place in a tin pan (not granite, or it will chip) or a large pie tin. As a substitute for a chopping knife an empty baking powder or cocoa can may be used. When potatoes are nicely chopped add a little finely minced onion, and mix well. Brown in a frying pan and turn onto a hot platter.

Peach Dumpling.
Pare, halve and pit six large, ripe peaches and place the halves together with the seeds and mix. Shape a dough precisely the same as for shortening, roll thin and cut with a large, round cutter. Lay half a peach cut side up in the center of each, put a small bit of butter and three drops of vanilla in the center of each peach on the forms. Then place the remaining halves of the peaches in position, fold the dough over, roll gently in the hand to make ball shaped, lay them on a buttered platter, but not closed in a steamer and steam twenty minutes. Serve hot with peach or any sauce preferred.

Kitchenettes.

When making baked or boiled custard the milk to be used should be scalded and set aside to cool. Then make a custard in the ordinary way and it will be perfectly smooth.

Pour boiling water over lemons before using. This will double the amount of juice they will produce. The pulp of a lemon is an excellent teeth cleanser. A bit of lemon put into the copper with a little boiling water will thoroughly clean it.

If a cork is too large for the bottle in which you wish to use it lay it on its side and with a little board or ruler roll it under the pressure you can put on it. It will be elongated to fit in a very few minutes.

When filling a cake tin remember that the center of the cake is the part which will usually be the highest, so spread the butter much to the sides as possible, leaving a depression in the center, then the cake, when baked will be level and much more convenient for slicing.

LOTS OF BEAUTIFUL, GLOSSY HAIR, NO DANDRUFF—25 CENT "DANDERINE"

Hair Coming Out?—If Dry, Brittle, Thin or Your Scalp Itches and Is Full of Dandruff—Use "Danderine."

Within ten minutes after an application of Danderine you cannot find a single trace of Dandruff or a loose or falling hair and your scalp will not itch, but what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use, when you will actually see new hair, fine and downy at first—yes—but—really new hair—growing all over the scalp.

A little Danderine will immediately double the beauty of your hair. No difference how dull, faded, brittle and scraggy, just moisten a cloth with Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. The effect is amazing—your hair will be light, fluffy and wavy, and have an appearance of abundance; an incomparable luster, softness and luxuriance, the beauty and shimmer of true hair health.

Get a 25-cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter, and prove to yourself tonight—now—that your hair is as pretty and soft as any—that it has been neglected or injured by careless treatment—that all you surely can have beautiful hair and lots of it if you will just try a little Danderine.

A Toilet Water.
A good toilet water may be made in the following way: Take six ounces of deodorized alcohol and two ounces of powdered Florentineorris root. Put the powder in a china basin and pour the alcohol on gradually until the whole is well mixed. Then add six drops of essential oil of violets, and pour the whole into a bottle and cork it. This should be kept three weeks. When it is wanted a little of the fragrant water should be poured into the bath.
